Proposal Content:

1. Organisation Overview:

❖ Name: [Roasted Bean Coffee Shop]

Five years ago, Roasted Bean Coffee Shop moved into its own modest shop on the corner of a busy street after beginning as a small family run stall at a weekend market. The owner sought to create a space where people could take their time, have a satisfying cup of coffee, and engage in meaningful conversations rather than hurrying off. With time the store developed a devoted following of frequent customers who visit every morning for coffee and a conversation with the staff.

❖ Mission and vision statements.

To serve high quality, freshly roasted coffee in a cosy setting and play a minor but significant role in the neighbourhood. To develop into a well-known local coffee brand with a reputation for excellence and friendliness while maintaining the intimate atmosphere that initially made the store well liked.

❖ Target audience.

Locals, young professionals, and students between the ages of 18 and 40 who appreciate good coffee, a laid-back vibe and trustworthy service, as well as those searching for a place to work, study, or meet up with friends.

2. Website Goals and Objectives:

Giving Roasted Bean Coffee Shop an online presence that reflects the cozy, welcoming atmosphere of the physical store is the website's primary objective. The website needs to help attract new customers, make it easier for visitors to identify the shop's location and hours, and eventually enable customers to check the menu online before they arrive. Currently, the business primarily relies on word-of-mouth and a little bit of social media.

A rise in monthly website views, more visitors use the "Contact Us" page or directions link, and comments from clients stating they discovered the store via the website rather than by accident are some of the key performance indicators that will be utilized to gauge success.

3. Current Website Analysis (if applicable):

Now, Roasted Bean Coffee Shop simply has a sporadically updated Facebook page instead of a website. This indicates that the company's largest flaw is that it is difficult to locate online, and those looking for a local coffee shop might not discover it at all. Additionally, the scant internet presence that does exist lacks uniform branding. The brand's strength, however, is that it already has a devoted following and a distinct personality that, once developed, can be carried over into a suitable website.

4. Proposed Website Features and Functionality:

- Homepage- Introducing the shop with a short welcome message and pictures of the space.
- About Us- The story of how Roasted Bean Coffee Shop started and what it stands for.
- Menu- a simple, easy to read list of hot beverages with prices
- Contact Us- address, opening hours, phone number and an embedded map.

5. Design and User Experience:

- Discuss the overall design aesthetic and branding, highlighting the following:
- Colour Scheme: [Proposed Warm Brown Palette]
- Typography: A clean, rounded sans serif font for body text paired with a slightly more handwritten style font for headings, to keep the tone friendly rather than corporate.

-Home Page
-About Us
-Gallery
-Services
-Contact Us

6. Technical Requirements:

Since the store doesn't require anything particularly complicated to begin with, the website will require a domain name that is like the company name and basic shared web hosting. For minor interactive components like a mobile navigation menu, the front end will be constructed with HTML, CSS, and a little JavaScript.

7. Timeline and Milestones:

The project will adhere to the module submission timeline; planning and wireframing will be finished first, then the static pages will be built, tested on various devices, and finally reviewed and polished before final submission.

8. Budget:

A reasonable estimate for a small business website like this would be between R150 and R300 annually for domain registration and between R100 to R250 per month for basic hosting, with a modest amount set aside for future maintenance and minor improvements, based on research into local hosting companies.
